1. In view of the Board decision and remand filed on 9/28/05, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. A new rejection is set forth below.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

(1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,

(2) initiate a new appeal by filing a notice of appeal under 37 CFR 41.31 followed by an appeal brief under 37 CFR 41.37. The previously paid notice of appeal fee and appeal brief fee can be applied to the new appeal. If, however, the appeal fees set forth in 37 CFR 41.20 have been increased since they were previously paid, then appellant must pay the difference between the increased fees and the amount previously paid.

A Supervisory Patent Examiner (SPE) has approved of reopening prosecution by signing below:

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 16-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Midling, WO 96/06222. Midling discloses nonwoven fabrics which comprise recycled fibers. The recycled fibers can have a length of 5-60 mm, (page 2, line 29). The recycled fibers can comprise natural and synthetic fibers. See page 3, lines 18-26. The recycled fibers are reclaimed from waste materials in the form of edge trimmings, start up waste and other unused as well as used textile structures. See page 3, lines 11-15. The waste textiles are cut up and subjected to shredding by spiked rollers to form the reclaimed fibers. See page 3, lines 19-21. The reclaimed fibers can then be combined with new fibers and formed into nonwoven webs by wet forming, foam forming, air laying or dry laying the fibers to form a web which can then be hydroentangled. See page 2, line 33-page 3, line 3. Midling differs from the claimed invention in that Midling does not disclose that the fibers have at least one irregular distortion generated by hydraulic fracture of the thread element to separate it from a bonded fibrous material while the bonded fibrous material is suspended in a liquid and does not describe the form of the distortions, (claim 21) or the surface area of the distorted fibers relative to the surface area of the fiber prior to its being reclaimed. However, Midling does describe a process for mechanically separating fibers having the claimed composition and length from textile waste by first cutting the material and then subjecting it to a spiked roller. Therefore, it is reasonable to presume that the fibers resulting from this treatment would have at least one distortion such a bend, a flattened segment or an expanded segment, due to the action of the spiked roller in separating the fibers. Due to the presence of the distortion the fiber would have a surface area which was greater than that of the fiber before it was separated. Support for these presumptions is found in the fact that Midling teaches employing the same size and types of fibers and subjecting them to mechanical stresses such as shredding with a spiked roller.

5. It is noted that the two obviousness-type double patenting rejections set forth previously were affirmed by the Board.

6. Claims 1-15 are allowed in view of the Board Decision dated 9/28/05.
